KENYON WON
Gambler, Nov. 25.—Kenyon played hard against Wooster Saturday afternoon and landed an easy victory with a 23 to 7 score. Kenyon suffered more penalties than in any game of the year. This, with frequent fumbling, kept the score below 40. Wooster received a fumble and bucked over for a touchdown in the first quarter, this one showing Wooster at her best. Straight football, with an occasional short forward pass, won the game. Against Wooster's open style of playing the Kenyon line was a wall, and not a single gain was made through it after the first quarter. Callin, Thompson, Bowls and Tasman consistently gained for Kenyon. Kinder and Prosser gained on every pass made to them. W. Collins and Wickham were the leading players for Wooster. The game throughout was clean and devoid of unsportsmanlike work, reflecting much credit upon Coaches Lloyd and Matthews. Lineup:

PETITIONS

Are Being Circulated By The Anti-Saloon League

To Hold The First I. And R.
Vote In The State

The first petitions in Ohio under the initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution, are being circulated by the members of the Anti-Saloon league for the purpose of having enacted into laws, by the legislature measures by which they propose to curtail the sale of intoxicating liquor in dry territory and also for the removal of public officials who refuse to enforce the statute says the Columbus Dispatch.

These proposed laws were determined upon recently by the Anti-Saloon league leaders at a conference held in Columbus. Petitions are being circulated in Ohio by 10,000 men, according to Rev. J. Sanford, district superintendent of the league.

It is proposed to submit the petitions to the next session of the general assembly and if the latter does not comply with the wishes of the league, to obtain a similar number of signatures and submit the proposed laws direct, under the new amendment at the next general election.

The measures proposed are stringent in every particular. It is proposed in one law to prohibit the shipment of liquor into dry territories and provides a severe penalty for violation. In the other measure county or municipal officers who fail to enforce the statutes, especially those relating to the liquor laws, may be removed from office upon sufficient evidence being presented and a hearing granted before either the governor or a common pleas judge. In the case of the governor the decision is final, while the decision of a common pleas judge may be reviewed on error by only one other court.

DEATH

Comes To Milton J. Davis
Sunday Morning

Result Of A Self-Inflicted
Gun Shot Wound

Milton J. Davis died at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the Mt. Vernon Medical and Surgical Sanitarium as the result of a bullet wound near his heart inflicted by his own hand at about 11 o'clock Saturday morning. According to a statement made by nurses at the sanitarium, he said nothing about the shooting nor did he make any statements relative to his motive for seeking his life. The act is generally supposed, however, to have been prompted by not only business reverses, but domestic trouble as well.

No attempt was made to probe for the bullet on account of the extreme danger that would necessarily result from such an operation and nothing could be done to save his life. Part of the time while at the sanitarium he was conscious but he was unconscious for several hours before his death. The funeral at the late home at 212 East Hamtramck street Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. William E. Hull officiating. Interment in Mound View cemetery.

DEATH COMES TO MAGILL

Passes Away At The Mt.
Vernon Hospital

At An Early Hour On Monday Morning

After Several Hours Of Intense Suffering

Made No Confession Prior To His Death

Asked For His Wife Severa
Times Saturday Night

At twelve fifteen o'clock Monday morning William B. Magill died at the Mt. Vernon hospital as the result of a gun shot wound inflicted in his neck and jaw nine days ago when he murdered his wife and then attempted suicide with the same weapon, a double barreled shot gun. His death followed several hours of intense suffering which was slightly alleviated by opiates administered by hospital attendants. Contrary to expectations, he made no confession.

On Saturday Magill appeared to be improving and seemed to be growing stronger every hour. The first rushment in a week was taken by him at that time and it was believed that he would live. He asked several times Saturday night for his wife, but was answered each time to the effect that she could not come to him. This fact appeared to cause him some worry.

Granting the possibility that the man really was ignorant of his having committed the terrible deed and that it was done in a moment of temporary insanity, the hospital attaches forbade any mention of the affair in his presence and, consequently, he was never told anything about it and had no occasion to make a denial. The general belief has been that he knew all about having committed the crime and was feigning ignorance of it in order to make his case more difficult to prosecute in case of a murder trial. His failure to confess, however, rather strengthens the contention of the few who maintained that Magill was mentally deranged.

Sunday at about noon Magill began to suffer pain and his condition, from that time on, became rapidly worse. During the early hours of the night his pain became almost unbearable and opiates were administered to ease his sufferings.

In an interview Monday morning the nurses said that the man was perhaps mentally incapable of forming ideas for a period of several hours before his death and that he probably would have been unable to make a confession even though it had previously been his intention to do so.

The body was taken to the Chapelle, Kaufman & Co., mortuary to be prepared for burial. Magill was absolutely unrecognizable and it is remarkable that he lived for nine days after having sustained such a wound. Blood poisoning had set in and his features were terribly disfigured.

The funeral will be held at the home of the deceased's daughter, Mrs. Harrison Houbler, on the Martinsburg road Tuesday afternoon at 12:30 standard time. The funeral will be strictly private. Burial in Mound View cemetery.

TO ENFORCE

The Traffic Ordinance—Vio-
lator Up Before The Mayor

Edgar C. Rush was notified at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Officer Walter George to appear before Mayor Perrine at 9 o'clock Monday morning to answer to a charge of violating the traffic ordinance recently passed by council. Mr. Rush pleaded guilty before the mayor Monday morning and was fined $5 and the costs.

This is the first fine resulting from violations of the ordinance, but more will follow if it is not observed more closely. Every effort will be made by the police to enforce it and there are few persons who own vehicles in or near Mt. Vernon who are unfamiliar with its provisions.

FORCED

A Woman To Make A False
Confession

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25.—Barbara Gladys Arnold, who in November confessed that she set fire to the Berlin Hotel, when four lives were lost yesterday, after her lawyer had declared her innocent of the crime repudiated her confession today in an interview. She said the confession was brought about by the declaration of Chief of Detectives Allender that the police had evidence against her, and that it would "go easier" with her if she confessed. In other words "third degree" methods forced her to acknowledge a crime of which she was guiltless. She denied any knowledge of a fire at the Windemer Hotel, as a sequel to which she was arrested and made her confession as a firebug.
